AWVS To Relieve Nurse Shortage With New Service

To relieve the shortage of nurses in Carmel, a situation that is becoming acute because the demand for beds at the Community Hospital makes it impossible for patients to remain any longer than is absolutely necessary, the Carmel A. W. V. S. is establishing a Good Samaritan Service through which people who are unable to get the services of a professional nurse may have voluntary nursing care by graduates of the Carmel Red Cross home nursing courses, Mrs. Carmalita Benson, president of the A. W. V. S. announced this week.

Miss Nancy Garlick, chairman of the home nursing for the Red Cross, will be in charge of the A. W. V. S. Good Samaritan Service which will have its headquarters in the A. W. V. S. office in the Pine Inn.

A list of home nursing graduates who want to make use of the skill they have acquired in their classes, and are anxious to help out their fellow townspeople in the existing emergency, is being assembled so that people who are ill, and new mothers returning from the hospital and unable to get assistance, will not be left alone and neglected.

The project has the hearty support of Miss Katherine Smits, manager of the Peninsula Community Hospital who states that especially in the case of new mothers is such a service needed as they frequently have to return home from the hospital sooner than they anticipated.

A similar service is operating

Rowntree, Hefling, Knight Win in Election

The Pine Cone-Cymbal is considering protesting Tuesday's city election. It can't be official. For the first time in years Pon Chung's name did not appear in the final tally as a write in for city councilman.

A forty per cent vote, 501 citizens out of a registration of 1265, turned out to cast 372 ballots for Bernard Rowntree, 370 for Frank Hefling, 335 for Allen Knight, and 270 for Eben Whittlesey, electing Rowntree, Hefling and Knight to the city council.

City Clerk Peter Mawdsley and City Treasurer Harry Hilbert, running uncontested, polled 432 and 437 respectively.

Airport Board candidates, also running uncontested: Charles S. Olmsted, 325; Harry L. Brownell, 316; Frederick M. Godwin, 332; James Finley, 314.

With only two votes difference between Rowntree's and Hefling's total, absentee ballots will determine who is to be Carmel's Mayor providing the city council decides to name for its head the incoming councilman with the greatest number of votes. Such has been the tradition with Carmel city councils over a period of years, though there have been exceptions, the most recent occurring at the time of the last city election when the city council decided to continue Keith B. Evans as mayor when P. A. McCreery stepped aside, though he had polled the greatest number of votes, beating Fred Godwin by one tally, another con-

Carmel Heads For Big Fiesta At Sunset School

By SUSAN CORY

All Carmel is invited to come to the Sunset school this afternoon where the students, under the able direction of Mrs. Sylvia Jordan, are presenting an unusual and colorful Pan American Fiesta and Market with fun and gaiety for everyone.

The opening event will be a gala performance in the auditorium reflecting the spirit of Fiesta. Following this the market and numerous other events will take place in the school yard. There will be a puppet show, brilliantly costumed señoritas and vendors, and countless attractive things to buy, all made by the students. Carmel's famous gourmets are vying with one another to create the most enticing dishes for the Parent Teachers' Association food booth where a great variety of food will be on sale—ration free—home-made—delicious. To mention just a few of those who are contributing their most famous dishes—Mrs. Howard Monroe is making tagliarini from the recipe of the Bohemian Club chef, Mrs. E. C. McGarr and Mrs. M. C. Walter their famous Texas tamales, Mrs. Ray Brownell her succulent Spanish bean dish, and Mr. Lloyd Tevis, Mrs. Robert Stanton, Mrs. Harold Mack and many others have promised their favorite recipes. There will be salads, hot dishes, cakes, cookies, pies and a most delectable assortment from which to choose.

One of the gayest events of the day will be the authentic Pan American tea and floor show arranged by Mrs. Ann Uzzell. This will take place in the lunch room during the afternoon with Ray Baugh, Monterey Justice of the Peace, who is famous for the active part he has played in Spanish affairs on the Peninsula, officiating as Master of Ceremonies. Carmen Mercante, talented dancer active in USO and First Theater work, will do two Spanish dances, Carlos Dieguez, well-known USO entertainer, will sing four Spanish songs, and the following talented pupils of June Delight will present a program of dances: Patsy Canoles, Billy Pat Torres, Ladisla Narvaez and Alma Lorenti.

At three o'clock the Carmel high school Cadet Corps will march in parade in the school yard. This will be their first public appearance and should create considerable interest.

From two to three o'clock the kindergarten children will present group dancing also in the school yard, and during the afternoon Mrs. Sylvia Jordan will serve tea in a charming side walk cafe.

Everyone is urged to attend, to see and marvel at the clever work our Carmel children have done and the great interest they have taken in this project, and above all to buy, for it is for a most worth while cause. The entire funds will go to maintain the activities of the Parent Teachers Association in Carmel among which are the Child Health Conferences, the High School Recreation Club, the Milk Fund and Health and Welfare work among the students.

Jelich Cleared By City Council, Gets "Greetings"

Charged by Mrs. Eleanor Horne with using undue force in arresting her for a traffic violation, Ed Jelich was cleared by the city council at a special meeting called Wednesday evening at 5:30 o'clock.

The city council's action was taken in the form of a resolution: "Now, therefore, be it resolved by the city council of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea that having considered the evidence presented to it in the matter of the charges of Eleanor Horne against Ed Jelich, the Council finds that at the times and places mentioned in said charges the said Ed Jelich conducted himself in a manner befitting a police officer and therefore the City Council of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea does hereby clear said officer of any and all charges brought against said officer by the said Eleanor Horne before said City Council."

Jelich has been acquitted of the same charge by a jury after trial for battery in justice court in Monterey, but is now defendant in a civil suit filed this week by Mrs. Horne in superior court in Salinas. The civil trial may be indefinitely delayed, as Jelich has been reclassified by the draft board and goes to San Francisco April 22 for his physical examination. If he is inducted into the army he is protected from civil suits until after the war. Police officer Frank Hay who has also received his "Greetings", goes to San Francisco on April 21 for his physical examination.

Mrs. Horne Sues Chief of Police And Ed Jelich

The Horne-Jelich case which has had its day in justice court in Monterey and in city court in Carmel, moved into the jurisdiction of the superior court at Salinas early this week when Mrs. Eleanor Horne filed suits against Carmel Chief of Police Roy Frates and Police Officer Edward Jelich.

Mrs. Horne seeks $1,500 damages from Frates for alleged false imprisonment, and $2,000 from Jelich whom she charges with assault and battery. She contends that Jelich used undue force in arresting her here on March 8, when she refused to sign a traffic citation and that Frates kept her confined in the police office for an hour instead of taking her immediately before a magistrate.

A jury found Jelich not guilty last week when he was tried in Monterey justice court on the battery charge in a criminal action brought against him by District Attorney Anthony Brazil.

Mrs. Horne was found guilty of the traffic violation, failure to make an arm signal, when she appeared Monday before City Judge George Ross. A fine of $2.50 was assessed.

She filed an appeal from Judge Ross' judgment on the traffic charge at the same time she

Pine Cone Hangs On To Its Hat As Youth Takes Over

While the newspapers of the nation are celebrating Want Ad Week (buy another want ad or something), the Carmel Pine Cone Cymbal will be putting on a celebration of somewhat different character next week in honor of an event that is anticipated with relish both by ourselves and by Carmel as a whole. We shall present with pride our Thirteenth Annual School Issue.

Police Issuing Citations to Dog Owners

Citations will be issued by Carmel Police to dog owners who allow their pets to run loose in violation of the State rabies quarantine and Carmel city ordinance. Frederick Godwin, Commissioner of Health and Safety, announced yesterday.

Two citations have already been issued and Judge Ross has assessed severe fines, Godwin said.

Continued violation of the quarantine, which has dragged on for nearly two years, resulted in a decision this week to conduct a Peninsula wide enforcement drive. At a meeting of representatives of the city governments of the Three Cities with county health authorities and S. P. C. A. officials held in the office of Monterey City Manager Mrs. Christine Raynsford, it was decided that police of the Three Cities would undertake enforcement through issuance of citations to dog owners, and that county health authorities would increase their efforts at enforcement in the outlying areas.

"It is not fair that those who have obeyed the law should be penalized by the negligence of those who do not comply," Godwin said. "For it is lack of co-operation of some dog owners that makes it impossible to lift the quarantine."

According to figures furnished by Mrs. Raynsford total animal rabies cases on the Peninsula are: Carmel 4, Carmel Woods and the Point 2, Pebble Beach 2, Pacific Grove 4, Del Monte Grove and Seaside 16, unlisted area 3, and Monterey 21. There was one case of cow rabies in Seaside.

Of especial interest to license-dodgers was Godwin's announcement that a double penalty will be assessed when unlicensed dogs are picked up.

Drive-In Market Rifled Wednesday

The Drive-In Market was broken into and rifled Wednesday night, Police Chief Roy Frates reported yesterday.

Carroll C. Briggs, who operates the vegetable department, found when he came to work in the morning that the till had been tampered with though it had been emptied before he closed up his stall the night before. He reported his discovery to the police who inspected the grocery department owned by L. B. Brown and found that canned food had been opened and eaten and cigarettes taken.

Each year when Spring gets in the air and adult mankind sighs for its lost youth, the Pine Cone Cymbal, instead of indulging in "windy supposition of forced breath," opens its doors wide, and while we antiquated regulars who toil and toil herein throughout the year take to cover, youth floods in and takes over.

Next week editors in their teens will preside at our battered desks and rattle our long-suffering typewriters. The voice that calls over the phone to get details of the towns' parties, weddings and new babies will be that of a member of the Carmel High School journalism class. A journalism class reporter will drop in on the mayor, the police department, saunter into the fire house to ask the eternal question, "What's Doin'?" And when the city council meeting is called Tuesday night to count absentee ballots, to install newly elected councilmen and to settle the matter of who is to be Carmel's mayor for the next two years, a high school student will cover the event and write it up.

Not only will the news of the town be gathered and written by students, but their contributions will fill the editorial and poetry columns. And from experience the town now knows something of the power behind the pen of youth. It will be recalled that an editorial in the school issue of the Pine Cone two years ago by Ede Jordan entitled, "Where is That Barn?"

Dave Nixon Accepts Wm. Bishop's Offer, Plants Super Bean

First to take up William Bishop's generous offer of land, tools and seed for a vegetable garden on his lot on San Carlos between Fifth and Sixth, is Dave Nixon, custodian at the post office, and guardian of the post office flag.

Nixon has already cleared the grass off half of the 100 by 40 ft. lot in preparation for planting string bean seed of the "yard-long" variety, which Bishop has assured a Pine Cone representative produces string beans 36 inches long, a phenomenon that should create considerable community interest.

As Nixon intends to put only half of the lot under cultivation, there is still space available for several more vegetable gardens.

The lot is centrally located, in full sun, with soil that produced a successful vegetable garden last year. There is water piped to the land, and the use of tools and a hose offered. All that is required is that the user pay his water bill. Bishop will also give away seed which he got early this spring with the intention of planting the lot himself until he found he lacked time for gardening.

Rachel Morton, Ann Barrows in Voice Concert at USO

By KIPPY STUART

Easter came to the Carmel USO. The quiet mood was set by Lee Crowe and Ruth Cooke through whose magic the great hall was transformed into the semblance of a cathedral. Against a background of tall candles and white lilies an unusual audience waited for the concert. It really doesn't matter that the singers were Rachel Morton and Anne Barrows; that the accompanist was Jeffery Harris. What does matter is what happened to that audience. When Rachel Morton's magnificent voice rose into a paeon of glory, her audience rose with her. She carried them "Down God's Highway"; she took them into the woods with "I Hear a Forest Praying." Heads and hearts bowed with her through the solemnity of Malott's "Lord's Prayer."

Anne Barrow's rich contralto voice holds all the mystery of joy and sorrow. Her "Danny Boy" was breathtaking, for she wove into the old melody a strange, poignant nostalgia. Her "Invictus" brought with it the sanctity of that great composition and when Miss Barrows sang "The Virgin's Slumber Song" peace seemed to flow into the hall.

The concert ended on a high note of patriotism. Mrs. Stuart Haldorn's own stirring composition "America Today" was sung by Rachel Morton. As the last notes were stilled, backs straightened, chins firmed, misty eyes cleared. In all truth, such music hath the power to stir the human heart.

"After Dark," New Play, Opens April 20 At First Theatre

"After Dark," one of the most famous old melodramas in the repertory, opens at the First Theatre in Monterey on Thursday evening, April 20, directed by Wilma Bott. The Troupers of the Gold Coast have spent the entire three weeks since the close of "Steve's Pal" in intensive rehearsals on the new play, and Troupers, the Denny-Watrous Management and the director alike feel confident that "After Dark" will be one of the First Theatre's greatest successes.

So great has been the interest that more applicants for parts presented themselves than could be used. The cast of Troupers selected by Wilma Bott includes Dorothy Mahoney, Blanch Ann Lodato, Phyllis Setzer, Carmen Mercante, Lois Frost, Carl Fowler, Wayne Edwards, Harold Brown, George Smith, Jim Jensen, Bob Ruddy, Sammie McGill, Jim Jensen and Harold Brown will M.C. the show. The olio is "super" in the opinion of the Troupers, who are having much fun rehearsing it.

Maxine Albro, distinguished painter of Carmel, has done the settings, which alone are a great attraction. Rhoda Johnson is making the costumes.

Extra Week Of Vacation On School Schedule

Cause for rejoicing on the part of Carmel school boys and girls is the action taken Tuesday night by the school board in setting two weeks aside for Christmas vacation instead of the one week allowed for the last Christmas holiday. In adopting the schedule for the next school year, the board set September 11 for opening day, allowed two days for Thanksgiving vacation, two weeks for Christmas celebration, a week for Easter and chose June 8 for closing date. Except for the additional week's vacation, the schedule is substantially the same as this year.

The board hired J. R. McKillop, for fourteen years superintendent of schools in Monterey, to teach Spanish here next term.

Superintendent J. W. Getsinger reported that County Probation Officer Ney Otis had informed him that he has the money in hand to pay for the damages occasioned when three Salinas boys broke about $500 worth of windows in the Carmel High School. Parents of the boys, who have been inducted into the Navy, are paying the damages.

Mrs. Helen Cowan Wood, Sunset School principal, reported on her attendance at a state conference of elementary principals at Sacramento April 3 to 6 where extensive discussion was held on juvenile delinquency and on the work of the state curriculum commission which is attempting to establish a framework for education in California into which all school systems in the state can fit.

The board authorized Superintendent Getsinger to attend the state conference of financing adult education to be held at Bakersfield, April 23-24.

Superintendent Getsinger informed the board that Mrs. Margaret Little and Mrs. Edith Fonteneau are carrying on the work at the high school cafeteria during the emergency created by the death of Mrs. Esther Clark until a new cafeteria manager can be found.

The board agreed to allow city employees under the supervision of the Street Superintendent to dump tree clippings and brush on school property but will not approve of the use of the dump by private citizens.

In addition to supervising the service and repair department of the company, he is buying and selling used cars and reports that he has been able to get hold of a good selection of nearly new automobiles.

FOR CHINA RELIEF

The special Easter Offering last Sunday at the Church of the Wayfarer was devoted to Chinese and Russian Civilian Relief. It amounted to well over $600. The loveliest part of this offering was $25 from the children of the Beginners and Primary department. Under the direction of their Superintendent, Mrs. R. Clay O'Rear, they made their own banks with pictures of Chinese children pasted on, and saved their pennies for the relief of children in other lands.

Fredrika Wallace

Navy Conducting Investigation in Mrs. Clark's Death

Carmel was saddened by the death of Mrs. Esther Clark, manager of the Carmel high school cafeteria, Good Friday afternoon when a Navy car driven by Seaman Richard James Brennan of the Monterey Auxiliary Naval Air Station struck her down in front of her home on Ocean between Camino Real and Casanova.

Brennan, who according to his statement to the police was unfamiliar with traffic conditions in Carmel, entered Ocean avenue from Casanova at a speed of 25 to 30 miles an hour. To avoid running into a car, driven by Major Cooper Anderson, proceeding down Ocean, Brennan swung left, struck Mrs. Clark who was standing in the parkway that borders the path, continued on and crashed into a parked car.

Mrs. Clark was killed instantly. District Attorney Anthony Brazil waived filing charges against Brennan, turning him over to Naval authorities who are conducting an investigation.

This is the third traffic fatality in Carmel within the history of the town, and the second to have occurred on Good Friday.

Funeral services for Mrs. Clark were conducted by Dr. J. E. Crowther, at 3 p.m. on Monday in the Dorney Chapel, Monterey, attended by members of the family and at least fifty of the many warm friends among Carmel residents, the high school staff and the boys and girls of the student body whose affection Mrs. Clark won during the brief space of time that she made her home here.

She was born in 1882 in Alexandria, Louisiana, the daughter of Mary Virginia and Peter B. Compton, and was graduated from the St. Francis Xavier Academy of Alexandria. During the lifetime of her husband, the late John Milton Clark, her home was in Daytona Beach, Florida, where she took an active part in civic and philanthropic affairs, assisting in the organization of the first school cafeteria for underprivileged children, maintained under the auspices of the Parent Teachers' Association. Later the idea grew into a city project and scientifically balanced luncheons were made available to every school child. By this time Mrs. Clark had been left a widow with five young children to support the knowledge which she had accumulated for a philanthropic purpose led to her appointment as cafeteria manager for the Daytona schools, a post she held until 1936, when she came West to make her home in Glendale, California.

In August, 1942, Mrs. Clark, her daughter-in-law, Mrs. James H. Clark, and her little grandson, James, Jr., established a home in Carmel following the departure of her son, Lt. James Clark, U.S.N.R., for active duty in the South Pacific. Capable, energetic, and genuinely interested in the welfare of others, especially of growing boys and girls, Mrs. Clark found the opportunity to use her particular experience as a part of the war effort when a vacancy occurred last September in the management of the Carmel high school cafeteria. This position she filled not only with outstanding success, but in a way which endeared her to all with whom she came in contact.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Henry A. Schaffer of Glendale; three sons: John Milton Clark of

FROM A WINDOW IN VAGABOND'S HOUSE. . . By Don Blanding

EDITORS NOTE:—Because so many requests have come to us for the Talisman booklet which is now out of print, we are reprinting here the little essay by Don Blanding with its message of courage.

A TALISMAN

L-I-D-G-T-T F-T-A-T-I-M . . . Those letters are carved across the front of the fireplace mantel in Vagabond's House. It is amusing to watch guests try to figure it out. Sooner or later they are bound to ask the meaning. If I don't feel like telling the story back of the cryptic letters I simply say "It's an old Arabic phrase," meaning "keep the homefires burning." If the folks are the right sort I tell them the story of a talisman that was given me at a time when a straw seemed like a floating timber to a drowning man.

There was a time during that ghastly period which we honestly called a depression instead of a recession when I felt that I was financially, emotionally, mentally and physically, "broke." I was tortured by insomnia from worry and a complete bewilderment as to a course to follow. A physical lethargy amounting almost to paralysis weighted my spirits. My house of dreams had crashed about my ears and I had the added blow of knowing that I had largely provided my own earthquake. Several intangible things I valued had crashed along with the more material things. I was feeling pretty sorry for myself and felt that the self-pity was justified.

I was staying (on credit) at a small art colony near Westport trying to rebuild something from the wreckage. Among the group was an Hawaiian whom I had known in the Islands, a man whom everyone loved for his quiet friendliness and sunny nature.

One morning when I was sitting on the banks of the small river nearby nursing my bruised spirits. Mike sat down by me.

"Alohi Lani," (my Hawaiian name), he said. "You're feeling pretty sorry for yourself."

"I've got a right to," I flared. "What about it?"

"Nothing," said Mike, "but I can help you."

"How?" I asked. I was decidedly skeptical.

"Well," said Mike, "I been watching how your light burns all night and I know you're lying awake worrying, worrying and worrying. That's no good. You promise me that tonight when you go to bed you'll pretend that you've just had a lomi-lomi (Hawaiian massage which is very relaxing). When you feel all easy, then you say something for me."

I was still skeptical. "What kind of hocus-pocus is it?"

He told me the phrase which is represented by the first letters of each word L-I-D-G-T-T F-T-A-T-I-M.

It sounded phony to me. But I knew Mike's friendly intent so I promised. That night when I turned in I tried to relax. When I had attained a sort of stormy quiet I said his phrase. "Lord I Do Give Thee Thanks . . . For The Abundance That Is Mine," I laughed hollowly, thinking that it was a heck of a time to be thankful for nothing.

Then I said the phrase again. "Lord, I Do Give Thee Thanks For The Abundance That Is Mine." Suddenly the meaning penetrated the fog of self-pity. I began listing assets instead of liabilities. Two hundred pounds and six-foot-one of sound body with nothing wrong, really, except ragged raw nerves. I thought of a legless pencil-seller in front of Grand Central station. Once he had been a prominent actor on Broadway. He was carrying on. I remembered a blind friend of mine who, after his tragedy, took a difficult job and succeeded with it, running a book store. The list grew and I felt sorely ashamed of my squawking.

Then I thought of the hundreds of hopeful people who were working against discouragement trying to write and get their writings published, taking their rejection slips gallantly. I had three books out and could certainly write more. I thought of the lonely people in the city eating their hearts out for companionship, and began thinking of the host of real friends that I had.

Before long I had dropped into deep healing sleep, the first time in a month. In the morning when Mike saw me he grinned.

"It worked all right, Alohi Lani?" he said.

"Yes, Mike, mahalo nui oe (many and many thanks)."

There's a talisman for you to use if you need it. It is a good one. It is not enough just to say the words. You must say them until they ring with deep conviction. Say them over until their meaning is crystal clear in your heart and successfully in Salinas but it is confined to volunteer home nursing care of new mothers who are the wives of service men. Mrs. Peter Andresen, chairman of "Ladies in Waiting" attended a meeting of the Carmel A. W. V. S. recently and in describing how the Salinas service functions, said in part:

"The interest gained impetus from the first volunteers who served, and soon we had about fifty volunteers set to go.

"The volunteers are asked to go with Mrs. Andresen to the Hospital the day she goes to take the new mother home. The volunteer carries the baby out of the hospital and into the home, thereby becoming acquainted with the mother and the baby as well.

"The next morning the volunteer goes to the home and shows the mother the things she needs to know; such as bathing, dressing and changing the infant. If there is a formula to be made she may help the mother with that.

"This may go on for two or three days, until the mother is strong enough and understands the routine sufficiently for the volunteer to discontinue her visits.

"In no case have volunteers been asked to do any menial work. The mothers have been most grateful. The fathers who were under overseas orders, have indicated deep appreciation that there was to be some one to help out the very young and inexperienced wife."

The A. W. V. S. Good Samaritan Service will not confine its help to Army and Navy wives, but will endeavor to help any new mother who may be in need of assistance, also to offer nursing help in cases of illness that fall within the scope of training given Red Cross Home Nursing students.

FROM A SOLDIER'S LETTERS . . .

IX

And then came the rain. I am talking about the rain of letters I just received. In this group of mail, the first received in two months, were—11 V-Mail and two airmail from you (and seven other letters.) There was a copy of "Common Ground,"—someone has borrowed it already, a package containing cigars (standard item for all packages from Carmel), hankies, paste, razor blades, airmail envelopes, airmail tables,—and oh, yes, a big can of pipe tobacco and pipe cleaners. Of course the package is late, but every article was in good condition. Another package (not from Carmel,) so badly damaged that it had been re-wrapped, contained a huge heart-shaped cake of soap; on the soap was the army insignia, and attached to it a white cord, which enables the user to hang the soap around his neck while taking a shower.

I was told by the chaplain that as I was a patient I could tell you that my hospital is in Auckland.

Auckland is a beautiful city with its harbor, beaches, rolling green hills and thousands of family homes, each with its garden. The homes are for the most part small one-story buildings, and 90% have red roofs, making a very attractive sight when looking from the city from one of the nearby hills. The climate and scenery, at least at this time of year, are very much like California. As you know it is summer here, and the school children are having summer vacation despite that fact that the Christmas season is just closing.

New Year's Day I took a ferry to Devonport, had steak, eggs and coffee (too much protein, says Mom) looked around, had a beer at the pub., and returned to Auckland. Next day I was invited to a family picnic on the beach . . . a most enjoyable Sunday. I could go on page after page writing of the beauty and hospitality of Auckland and New Zealand, and yet an American's first impression of New Zealand may well be one of dismay and annoyance. For here we find a complete opposite of our American mechanized high-speed mode of life. Americans coming to the Dominion for the first time are apt to laugh at pauses for tea, the numerous vacations and the ease with which New Zealanders face life. They are apt to say that New Zealand is fifty years behind the progress in the States, industrially and commercially. People here hope that following the war the United States will help industrialize their nation. If this does come to pass, I sincerely hope that they never reach our high point of so-called efficiency. For here in this beautiful land the people have found standards of health and happiness that we gave up years ago to the dictates of the machine and the almighty dollar, and for which, I believe, many of us would gladly give up much so-called progress that we have achieved.

Day by day this country and its peaceful way of life grows on one till gradually your first impression changes to one of admiration. Many of us Americans here are going to re-appraise our own fast and furious living, for here we are finding the true art of living.

RAIN

The mild precipitation in Carmel this week amounted to 0.50 inches April 11 and 0.03 April 12, according to Professor Francis E. Lloyd's rain gauge. Total for this season 17.91. Last season to date, 16.72.

Over Four Million Points Saved Here By Home Canning

More than 4,500,000 blue points worth-of home canned food in this county was reported last fall to Miss Anne Olson, home demonstration agent, as the contribution of the women of Monterey county to the national food conservation program. Undoubtedly there was much additional canned food that was not reported to the office in Salinas. This huge quantity adds up to 225 tons of fruit and vegetables for this county alone.

One of the most outstanding achievements was that of Miss Josephine Tognetti of King City, all-star 4-H club member, who canned more than 500 quarts of fruits and vegetables, in addition to assisting with the farm work as well as household duties. Miss Tognetti is a junior college student. These facts were given by Miss Olson at a meeting held in Salinas on March 29 to plan for the food preservation program for the coming season; three canning leaders from Carmel were in attendance.

Plans were discussed for carrying on the work this year, and the community volunteer leaders agreed to serve again in that capacity. Miss Olson announced that there would be aluminum pressure cookers on the market, in addition to some of the "victory models" offered last year, and also large kettles for "hot water bath" canning of fruits. Last year 3,596 women were given instruction in canning by Miss Olson and the volunteer leaders, many of them individually in their homes.

Going on from last season's accomplishment, there may be much more done this year. T. W. Thwaites, assistant farm advisor for the county, said that still greater food production and conservation will be needed this year than last, due to various war demands. For example, England in peace time depended upon four other countries for much of her food supply, Russia used to get 40 per cent of hers from outside, and Germany has taken 40 per cent of Russia's livestock, which were in the occupied regions. These needs must be made up from the Americas, both North and South.

Perry Henderson of Salinas discussed the need for victory gardens to come as near as possible to supplying home needs in order to release food commercially canned for the armed services and lend lease. Speakers from other parts of the county told of plans for carrying forward the production and conservation program. Meetings will be arranged for bringing the latest research by the universities to the home groups to avoid spoilage.

After the meeting the group enjoyed a personally conducted tour through the Spiegl dehydration plant near Salinas, where they watched the processes of preparing cabbage, in one unit, and potatoes, in the other, for the U. S. government. Samples of the final product were inspected, tasted, and admired. One approximately five gallon can of dehydrated cabbage will furnish six-ounce serving—standard is four ounces—for 200 persons. The Spiegl plant is the largest in the world. —L. L. T.

Outland Speaks At Campaign Dinner

About fifty members of local Democratic groups met at luncheon on Saturday, April 9th, at Casa Munras, for the purpose of planning the campaign for the reelection of Congressman George Outland. Group leaders, including Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Dyke of Pacific Grove, John Martin of Monterey and Miss Clara Kellogg of Carmel, took part and many helpful suggestions were made.

Dr. Horace Dormody presided and spoke briefly of his own campaign for State Senator.

Mr. Outland mentioned his new appointment to the House Banking and Currency Committee, which is shortly to review the entire question of price control. He regretted his inability to take an active part in his own campaign because of the necessity of his presence in Washington, where many important decisions are to be made in the coming months. Mr. Outland voiced his regret at the withdrawal of Mr. Willkie from the Republican presidential race and hoped that the party would not be completely deprived of his liberal influence.

Others who spoke briefly were Mrs. T. G. Emmons of Salinas, Chairman of the County Committee for Mr. Outland's re-election, and Mr. P. J. Dougherty and Mr. Jack Malloway of Monterey. The

Marrs, Manero in Joint Recital Sunday Evening

David Marrs, pianist, and Jose Manero, dancer, will appear in joint recital under the sponsorship of the Musical Art Club next Sunday evening at 8:30 in the Carmel high school music room.

David Marrs, teacher of mathematics at Carmel high school, is a pianist of outstanding ability. He has received his musical training with teachers in San Diego and Berkeley, and appeared in concert in various California cities. He was presented in concert by the Musical Art Club several seasons ago at the Peninsula Country Club. His program for this concert will comprise works of MacDowell, Chopin, Schubert, Rachmaninoff, Scriabin, and Liszt.

Jose Manero studied dancing at the Lettie Carroll Studio in Mexico City. Later he was featured as soloist of the "Ballet Carroll" and partner of the Ballet's first dancer Victoria Ellissa. This group is Mexico's most accomplished Ballet company and presents the Ballets at the "Palacio de Belles Artes" (Opera House) in Mexico City.

While teaching Mexican dances at the studio he met Paquita, one meeting was filled with the spirit of cooperation and enthusiasm as well as the will to work hard for the two candidates, Mr. Outland and Dr. Dormody.

of his pupils and formed the team of Jose and Paquita. During several years they tramped Europe, North Africa and United States, dancing in the most fashionable resorts, casinos and hotels in the world and became famous as one of the outstanding interpreters of Spanish and Latin-American dances. Manero is now serving in the army and is stationed at Fort Ord.

"POP" HAS NEW SUBJECT

Cecil "Pop" Smith, Carmel unofficial dog photographer, whose hobby is taking snap shots of attractive pets throughout the town and presenting the owners with prints of the photos, has extended his field. Since the first of the year, he has been taking pictures of army wives and their children, and his album already numbers 55 photos.

The dog album had reached 800 at last report.

JUDGE KINSELL MAKES A POINT

Considerable good natured kidding has come Judge Dudley Kinsell's way since he presented the postmaster with a box of pen points for the post office lobby. In rebuttal, the judge has ransacked literature for material to prove that whatever it may mean to the post office patrons, the pen, per se, is an instrument to be reckoned with. He submits his evidence below:

A GOLD PEN TO MR. HENRY CLAY

New York, 8 Washington Square, July 12, 1845
Honored and Honorable Sir:

Designed by my maker for actual service, and ambitious to hold a situation where I can gain the highest honor, and confer the greatest benefit on mankind, I am emboldened, at the suggestion of a friend, to present myself before you, to solicit your patronage and favor.

Truth compels me to admit that I have but little to recommend me to your notice. Although I derive my origin from a rich and powerful family, to whom even Princes pay court, and whose influence is felt throughout the world, I am myself without influence, without the attraction of peculiar beauty, am worth but little money, and wholly destitute of intellectual endorsements. Yet, Kind Sir, if you will take me by the hand and admit me to your intimate companionship, to your treasury of thoughts, I shall soon become familiar with all that is noble in sentiment, lofty in conception, wise in judgment, beautiful in imagery, honest in purpose, and truthful in expression. Thus guided I cannot fail to impart pleasure and instruction to the world; and to gain in return, the world's admiration and applause.

Insignificant as I may appear in comparison with such of my elegant relations as have lately been presented to you, I yet hope you will deign to listen to my application, will give me a place near your person, and allow me to remain, honored Sir, ever yours to command.

THE PEN

BY WILLIAM BAUSMAN

Ah, thou little implement, how much of undeserved reputation hast thou blazoned! How many noble thoughts depicted! How many philosophical reflections embodied! The tomes of history are thy biography! Without thee tradition perishes. The troubadors who despised thee are extinct, and their unprovoked sonnets forgotten. With thy aid, the epics and heroics of the dead poets still survive to crown their names with immortality! "The pen" said the dramatist, "is mightier than the sword"; and the dramatist had said truly. It is the architect of mind that molds its language into form, and frescoes it with the word-limning of the scholar. It rescues, preserves, transmits, and fixes its subject like the granite base, for the building of a structure of fame. It stimulates the prosperity of states, and secures their ovations. To literature it is the galleon, with flowing sails—freighted with intellectual treasures. The downhearted take courage from the fearlessness of its strictures, and tyrants tremble at its power. This is my eulogy, my companion and my friend. Plucked though thou be from an ignoble wing, the Damascus steel can make no deeper or surer incision. The sword has no such panegyric. The phrase, "It destroys," is at once its history and its epitaph—and for the record of even this brief sentence, it is indebted to thee. Yes, thou art much greater than the sword; and so let the thesis and the antithesis of the measurement go together.

POETRY

Our Poetry Editor, Dora Hagemeyer, called unexpectedly out of town, left word with us that she did not have time to assemble a poetry column for this issue and suggested that we pick up for reprint poems that have appeared in earlier issues of the Pine Cone. We had a better idea, though in view of her modesty, we did not confide it to her. We are here reprinting three poems from Dora Hagemeyer's delightful book of verse, Periwinkle Patch.

SONG FOR CARMEL SANDS

The places in the garden
That I love best,
Are the old scrubby bushes
Where the song-birds nest . . .

And the long brown hill
Where the blue-jays scratch . . .
The wood-pile corner,
And the Periwinkle Patch.

TO MARCIA WITH SHELLS IN HER HAIR

She came alive from a story-book;
She stepped right off the page—
Out of a blue-bell, cowslip nook,
The child of a by-gone age.

Tiny she was, just three feet high,
In a full skirt touching the ground,
And a little bodice of white chambray,
With ruffles all the way round.

The sheen of a primrose shone in her hair—
Her eyes were sunlit dells—
Was it Titania standing there,
Crowned with a circlet of shells?

People walked by, all unconcerned;
Nobody stood and stared—
Nobody saw the troops of elves
Curtesying fit to break themselves,
And the moon-white grasses listening down
To the song of the sea-shells in her crown—
A queen! and nobody cared!

HAPPINESS

A thousand little savours
Came up upon the air;
Sugar-pine and tarweed,
And blossoming pear.

A thousand little voices
Went floating down the hill;
Meadow-lark and chick-a-dee,
A-singing what you will.

A hundred thousand faces
Looked up from field and meadow;
Lady-bud and hound's-tongue,
And lilies in the shadow.

Myriads of creatures
A-shining and a-winging;
To set the heart dancing,
And the spirit singing.

THE FOUNTAIN PEN

BY HERMAN A. HEYDT

In crystal showcase I'm immured—my sepulchre of glass,
Where hundreds daily pause to gaze, then slowly onward pass.
In velvet casket I repose, stamped with my maker's name,
And hear a "salesman" with soft voice of me speak in acclaim.
He looks at me with tender eye and opes a sliding door,
And dusts and cleans and rubs my sides till I am sick and sore.
And then all day they handle me—my soul them all anoints—
With endless scrolls and foolish lines, to test my golden points.
I dream. My forbears in Brazilian wilds dwelt in a jungle tree,
Which some would tap and boil the sap and shape it into me.
With golden crown I was beset, from out the inner earth,
A single artery I own, my maker gave at birth.
A blood transfusion I received; 'twas black as blackest ink,
With which on paper-sheets I marked the thoughts that others think.
With my life's blood I then essay to ease another's pain,
To flush the cheek, to thrill the heart with Love's divine refrain;
I cheer the soul, dispel the clouds, bring glow to sparkling eye,
Or stir a mother's breast, perhaps, or calm some anguished sigh.
Perhaps another captures me. I mark with many blots
A venomed, angered diatribe, or else some murd'rous plots.
Indeed, were I but kindly used, 'mongst nations I could bring
A peace by treaty of the world while angels paeans sing.
I am a messenger of joy, of peace, good will toward men,
Or else of evil, to annoy—a helpless fountain pen.

BLANDING TO SPEAK FOR WOMAN'S CLUB

A talk by Don Blanding will be the main feature of the Book Section meeting of the Carmel Woman's club, to be held in the Girl Scout House at 2 p. m. on Monday, April 17, and open to the public for a fee of fifty cents, all proceeds to be devoted to a fund maintained by Mr. Blanding for the purchase of scientific and technical books not ordinarily donated for the use of men in the various armed services. The subject of the talk will be Mr. Blanding's latest book, Pilot Bails Out, verses from the viewpoint of soldiers, sailors, marines, fliers, and resulting from the author's own experiences in service. The lead poem of the volume, Soldier, What Did You See?, has been set to music by Norman Soreng Wright and sung twice over the Westinghouse hour by John Charles Thomas, who reports that it called forth the widest popular response ever accorded one of his numbers.

SUNSET SCHOOL NOTES

EXTRACTS FROM A SEVENTH GRADE EASTER VACATION

About 3:30 Monday morning there was quite a commotion in our neighborhood. The Boy Scouts of Troop 86 were getting ready to go on a hike. We were supposed to stay Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, but, of course, it rained Monday night and we had to come home the next day. We camped about seven miles down the coast. I know we all enjoyed our hike and the whole troop wants to do it again.

—Bob Burgess

Last Sunday afternoon I had nothing to do so I put on my Easter suit that was made for me two years ago and a little beanie with a bright colored feather on it and took my dog down to the beach. After an hour of walking I stopped and happened to look at my shadow. I saw just a plain head and nothing sticking up from it. The feather was gone. I knew there wasn't any use trying to find it because there was a very strong wind.

—Louise Harber

My brother and I went to a friend's ranch on the other side of Big Sur. We followed a stream up a canyon and found the water coming out of a hole in the rock about twenty feet above us. My brother wanted to climb up and get a better look. I told him not to, but he did it anyway. He got halfway up and the land started sliding out from under him. He went with it and landed in the stream. He got mad, because I laughed at him, and stalked off home.

—Tom McCrea

Last week I came to school and helped Mrs. Jordan get things ready for the fiesta. I dressed clowns, painted a toy cupboard, and painted letters on a wagon. It was lots of fun.

—Constance Melchior

Eric Otto and I went for a hike. We followed a creek for about a mile and a half. We came to a road where we met some cows. We just kept walking and they turned around and ran away. We found an old, broken down cabin. The only thing left standing was an old adobe fireplace.

—Bob Burgess

Monday through Wednesday I spent my time helping Mrs. Jordan. My work was painting tables, cupboards, and flower stakes. Thursday I helped my mother move. Saturday and Sunday the same. It was a short, but enjoyable vacation.

—Roy Westberg

Last Wednesday I went on a church picnic. There were quite a few children from my room. We met at the church at 2:30 and then went to Indian Village. After we got there we played baseball and other games. Later we went down to the beach and saw Seal Rock. When we got back we roasted wienies over an open fire and then started for home.

—Au-Deane Shepherd

Last Saturday my brother, David visited us. David lives in Berkeley at the Y.M.C.A. with my father. He is in the third grade at the Washington school. We all enjoyed seeing him and we hope he comes to see us again soon.

—Laurel Dell Hildebrand

I went on an Easter egg hunt. It was at the Mission and indoors. I found only a few eggs.

—Peter Krupocki

I went to church practically all week except Monday. On Friday I went at 12 and came out at three o'clock. On Sunday we had to stand up because there were so many people. Lots of service men were there.

—Violet Figueroa

I went to the circus in Monterey with my sister and some of her friends. I didn't like the circus very much, but I did like the ferris wheel. Once something happened and the wheel stuck. I was just one seat from the top. A cold wind came up and I could feel the wheel swaying. It finally started again and I rode several more times, but my sister wouldn't because she thought it might get stuck again.

Rev. Ward Speaker At Auxiliary Meet

While the world has advanced almost immeasurably in the last hundred years, people are largely living in the psychology of the past, the Reverend V. O. Ward told the members of the Women's Auxiliary of the Church of the Wayfarer at their meeting last week Tuesday. Mr. Ward, who is soon to leave his pastorate of St. Mary's-by-the-Sea in Pacific Grove to head the educational work of the Episcopal Church in northern California, spoke on "Looking Forward in Christian Work."

In 1810 people were still in the handicraft age and produced all their needs on their own farm or in the community. In 1844, the beginning of the mechanical age, they still produced 95 per cent of their needs, and had little knowledge or understanding of other peoples outside their community. World progress from the very beginning to 1870 was less than that from 1870 to 1910, the beginning of the power age. In 1900 a university professor of physics told a graduate student that all fundamental discoveries that could be made in the subject had already been made, and yet the discoveries since that time far outweigh all that preceded them.

This great power age has so affected transportation that no point in this country is more than 60 hours distance by air from any other spot on the earth. And yet psychologically we are in the handicraft age: we do not understand or feel friendly to people of other nationalities, cultures, races, or color of skin. Out of every 64 babies born in the world, only 17 are white, and yet we assume we are of higher stuff, of different clay from the non-white peoples.

"Who ever told you that Jesus Christ was a white Englishman?" asked the resident pastor of a church in Africa of a former Bishop of London who made his official visit to the church in the "dark continent."

The speaker pointed out that there are great possibilities creatively in racial differences; these other peoples have in their cultures ideas and sentiments of value to the white races and appreciation of these can make the Christian civilization survive.

The machine age and the power age have changed the economic conditions as well. No longer have gold and silver great intrinsic value. Social worth gives the only value, and now this lies in labor and material; henceforth the world must move on the basis of plenty for all, for only thus can we maintain ourselves. The church "must recapture society for Christ," who is the mediator between us and the brother of another color, another culture, another class.

Before the speaker was introduced Eben Whittlesey, local lawyer, charmed the society with three solos: the folksong, London-derry Air; God's Highway, by Callahan and Roberts; and Passing By, E. Purcell. His accompanist was Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Grace Howden, president of the Auxiliary, conducted the meeting.

Memorial Services For Rev. W. G. White

Private memorial services were held at 4 p. m. on Thursday, April 6, in the Biblical Garden of the Church of the Wayfarer for the late Willis G. White, whose death occurred on March 2.

Gathered in a secluded corner of the sunny garden, members of the family attended while Rev. C. J. Hulsewe, Rector of All Saints' Church, read the 23rd Psalm and the 14th chapter of St. John's Gospel, Rev. Stewart C. Potter, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Monterey, spoke of the faithful ministry of Rev. White to all classes of society and Dr. J. E. Crowther, pastor of the Church of the Wayfarer, led in prayer. Present for the ceremony were the widow, Mrs. Willis G. White, her daughter, Mrs. Francis H. Herrick of Oakland, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. White of Redwood City, brother and sister-in-law of the late Rev. White, and his sister, Miss Margaret White of Pacific Grove. Major William Gail White, U. S. Army, the son of Rev. and Mrs. White, is now on overseas duty.

On Saturday morning, April 8, under the direction of Paul's Mortuary Chapel, the ashes of Rev. White were interred in the Pacific Grove Cemetery beside those of his eldest son, the late John Bidwell White, and at this service, attended only by Mrs. White the

"Service-up" your Refrigerator

for Hot weather

- Use a mild soap or soda for cleaning your refrigerator.
- Defrost whenever freezing compartment has coating 1/4" thick.
- Wipe up spilled foods at once.
- Do not put hot foods into the refrigerator.
- Store foods properly and do not overcrowd the shelves.

THE TIME is now, as Spring is here and bountiful Summer approaches, to "service up" your refrigerator.

Wash it thoroughly inside and out so that it will be sweet and clean for fresh food storage. Carefully give it soothing drops of oil where needed. Whisk out dirt and dust from the mechanism with a handbrush and dust rag. And of course, never let frost "choke up" freezing compartment. You MUST depend on your present refrigerator to take care of food for the hot summer days ahead. If repair is necessary, have it done now before the summer rush.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Mrs. Clark

The students in the high school were deeply shocked and saddened by the tragic death of our Mrs. Clark last Friday. Mrs. Clark had had charge of the cafeteria since last September and we all learned to love and respect her. Carmel high school will not seem quite the same without her cheery personality.

Our hearts go out to the members of her family who have suffered this tragic loss—as for us, we have lost a good friend, one who cannot be replaced.

First Track Meet

Track season opened on the Peninsula March 31, with Pacific Grove running to a 62 to 49 point victory over Carmel on the Grove field. All events were heavyweights, due to the fact that the Padres have no lightweight team. P. G. took eight first places, tied for another and won the relay.

Carmel made it a clean sweep, however, in the shot-put, and won the 220 yard dash. We also took first in the discus. Times were fair considering it the first of the season.

The Lesson-Sermon will also include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The atonement is a hard problem in theology, but its scientific explanation is, that suffering is an error of sinful sense which Truth destroys, and that eventually both sin and suffering will fall at the feet of everlasting Love," (p. 23).

Don't be down-hearted at the results of this meet, our Padres really tried hard, and I know they were just loosening up for the big meet this coming Saturday over at Salinas, when we mingle with Santa Cruz.

At the last meet our Coach, Mr. Rudd, was in the city on business (Uncle Sam). We like to think that his absence had something to do with the results. ### What a Game!

The eighth grade girls really showed their mettle on March 31st, when they played the Freshmen in basketball. The Freshmen, who have a very good team, were surprised at the vigor and zest with which they were met, and they had to play a little harder than had been anticipated. The Freshmen just won by the skin of their teeth, 12-9.

The players for the eighth grade were: Peggy Riker, Betty Goulart, Betty Dougherty, Elaine Drew, Rita Haseltine, Sunny Cook, Shirley Petty, Shirlee Sousa, Nancy Anderson, Yvonne Goodrich and Rose Krupocki.

The Freshmen honor was upheld by: Dianne Tait, Joan Carr, Joan Gorman, Mary Frances Warfield, Susita Cecil, Gwen Kleckner, Kim Carleton, Billy-Claire Mason and Lillian Duggan.

The eighth grade have now decided to challenge the Freshmen to another game. —Ann Hodgson

Drama

It looks as if what Sherman said about war is true in more ways than one. The latest sad news is: the drama class, both adult and high school are going to have to do their productions without the aid of proper settings and back drops. Everything will be very plain. This calls for superb acting and I sincerely believe we're going to get it.

Even so, we of the audience are going to have to bring our imaginations to the fore when we attend the plays.

There are three plays scheduled, the first is "Happy Days" by the high school students on April 21. The other high school production planned for May 29th is "Letter to Lucerne." The adult class will do the old favorite, "Arsenic and Old Lace."

So how about dusting off the old imagination and keeping the dates clear. We'd like to see you all there. —June Quinn

Red Cross

By HELEN A. FIELD
Important! Please note the change of the date on which the new evening Nurses Aide course will begin at Carmel Chapter of American Red Cross. The first class meeting will be held from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. on Monday, April 24 at Red Cross Headquarters on Dolores street. For three weeks thereafter the class will meet four days a week—Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays.

As you, perhaps, already know the need for caring for the sick in our hospitals now that large numbers of trained nurses have gone overseas or into hospitals for servicemen in this country is so great that every woman who can do so should take the opportunity to become a qualified Nurses Aide at the earliest possible moment. For information about where and when to register for this course call, Carmel 2100, any weekday between 9:30 and 4:30 or on Saturday between 9:30 and 1:00, or stop in at Red Cross Headquarters to register. Do not delay.

Do you know how much the Mission Trails Camp and Hospital Council Service is doing for the comfort and happiness of the servicemen in this part of California? At the meeting of the Council held on Tuesday, April 11th at the Station Hospital at Fort Ord a serious group of men and women met to consider ways to assist in keeping the morale of Army and Navy men and women high in the area served by the Council. Mrs. R. R. Wallace represented the Carmel Chapter of Red Cross. Other Red Cross Chapters represented were: Los Gatos, Monterey-Pacific Grove, Salinas, San Benito County, San Jose, Santa Cruz and Watsonville.

Among the many activities carried on under the guidance of the several members of the Council those frequently mentioned in Tuesday's meeting had to do with the provision, in rooms for our servicemen to use in their leisure hours, of comfortable and tasteful furniture and decoration, good reading matter and proper places to keep it, good lighting, games and good music.

Henry Miller, Writer and Artist, Recent Evacuee from Greece, Plans To Make Home in Big Sur Country

BY IRENE ALEXANDER

A house guest of Lynda Sargent at present, with plans to make an indefinite stay in the Big Sur country is Henry Miller, internationally known writer and water colorist.

A native of New York, he lived for twelve years prior to the outbreak of war in France, making his headquarters in Paris, where he wrote the first of his impressive list of more than seventeen published volumes, for the most part philosophical and autobiographical, under such titles as The Tropic of Cancer, The Tropic of Capricorn, Black Spring, The Cosmological Eye, The Wisdom of the Heart.

Inspired by letters from his friend the young English poet, Lawrence Durrell, descriptive of the beauties surrounding his home on the Island of Corfu, Mr. Miller journeyed to Greece for a visit and remained nine months, until the last of the Americans were evacuated by consular orders. He came away with a fixed determination to return at the first opportunity, so entranced was he by the land and its inhabitants.

He finds the country of the Big Sur and along the coast south of Carmel reminiscent of the stark ruggedness of the Grecian islands, with their rocky mountains sheering off into the sea. Everywhere in Greece he was struck by the perpetual contrasting blue sky and sea with the pure whiteness of walls and houses. Many of the islands are bare of habitation save for a tiny white chapel or monastery imbedded in the rock.

Striking, too, was the acute poverty of the land, so denuded of its vegetation that only a goat can eke out a meagre existence, thus providing a vicious circle of impoverishment, since the presence of the goat makes impossible the rehabilitation of the terrain over which he nibbles.

Mr. Miller is convinced that the first post-war job of Greece is its reforestation.

He has much to say in praise of the country's inhabitants. He found them for the most part a tough, virile, courageous people, shrewdly ingenious and likely to survive. Many of them, even among the peasant class are able to speak half a dozen languages: Arabic, Russian, Turkish, French, German and English. Greek women are strong and hardy, possessed of independent minds, and those of the cultured classes are exceptionally well read and well informed. In addition to this, Mr. Miller considers them the most interesting and beautiful women he has encountered in his travels.

Extreme poverty was widespread, meat appearing in the average peasant diet no more frequently than once a month. Yet notwithstanding the rigors of life, they are extremely hospitable people. Their attitude toward Americans is warm and cordial, in thousands of cases based upon a first-hand knowledge of this country, for everywhere Henry Miller found Greeks who had worked for a while in our big cities, saved their money and returned to their native land.

Writers, of whom there are many of unusual gifts, have a slim time of it in Greece, for only a limited number are conversant with the language of literature in its written form, and little has been done in the way of translation into other languages, even in the case of their best-known poets.

Henry Miller has already won high praise for his writings on the continent and in England, where he is widely read. Paul Rosenfeld of the Saturday Review of Literature characterizes him as "surely the largest force lately risen on the horizon of American Letters," and A. Desmond Hawkins, writing in The Criterion, London, declares, "Put any page of Mr. Miller's own authentic writing beside any novel written in England during the last five years and it will be obvious that he has freshness, vigor, panache, and an intimacy with his environment that our native gentility has lost."

Direct and unaffected in speech and manner, possessed of a kindly humor and a lively interest in every phase of nature and humanity about him, Henry Miller is an indefatigable and prolific writer. While in Greece, he wrote his novel, The Colossus of Maroussi. During the past two years, which he has spent in traveling around the United States, he has completed two books, Sunday After the War, to be off the press next month and another, Semblance of a Devoted Past, to appear this month. His plan is to remain in the Sur country long enough to finish his present work on the war, to be entitled The Air Conditioned Nightmare.

Carmel's Chinese Soldier Writes From Jungle Base

William Chinn, Carmel's Chinese soldier serving with the American forces somewhere in the Pacific writes home to his friend and tutor, Mrs. Willis White:

We are no longer in New Caledonia where we were for a number of months. I hated to leave there as I was pretty well acquainted and had made several friends both American and Chinese. However, various things are bound to happen, and should be expected in the Army. I can't mention the name of this place, but I'll tell you a little of the people and some of our surroundings. Camp is about three hundred yards from the ocean, and the water is as warm as the air, so when you go swimming you think you are still on shore. There are lots of coconut trees along the shore as far as you can see. The fruit here is quite similar to New Caledonia. But the people consist mostly of natives who do most of the labor, and there are a few Chinese who were imported from other islands to work as K. P.'s for the officers' mess.

There are not any white Misses or WACs, and no towns or villages near by. I have heard that back in the jungles there are native villages, but so far, have not visited any as I've only been here since the 8th of the month. I didn't get sick this time which is something as I was terribly sick on my way out from the States. But like anything else, I guess one gets used to it.

I'm still in the kitchen and enjoy my work very much. I have lots more confidence in myself set into motion forces that resulted first, in Carmel's splendid summer recreation project, and now culminate in the Hi Club House, "That Barn" of Ede's editorial.

Other attractions of the big issue the students are putting out for us next week will be interviews with outstanding Peninsula personalities conducted and written by Sunset students, feature articles, and linoleum cuts made by art students from both Sunset and the High School.

And for a special, front page feature—the students are assembling an honor roll of Carmel High graduates serving in the armed forces. It is longer than you think. —Wilma Cook.

Dr. C. B. Van Niel Awarded Fellowship

Among the nine Californians whose names were announced on April 10 as recipients of Guggenheim Fellowships, awarded annually to American and Canadian scholars, scientists and creative workers and carrying an allotment of $2,500 a year each, appears that of Dr. C. B. Van Niel, of Carmelo and 4th street.

Dr. Van Niel, who was summoned from his native Holland in 1928 to become an associate professor of microbiology at Stanford University, later being promoted to full professorship, established a home for his family that same year in Carmel. He is now serving as professor of microbiology at the Hopkins Marine Station of Stanford University in Pacific Grove. Dr. and Mrs. Van Niel are the parents of three children, Ester, a junior in Carmel high school, Ruth and Jan Van Niel.

The project for which Dr. Van Niel has been awarded the Guggenheim Fellowship comprises studies of new concepts of chemical and physical phenomena with a view to applications in general biochemistry.

Billy McDermaid Killed in Action

Word that Pfc. William McDermaid, widely and affectionately known in Carmel as Billy McDermaid since his Sunset school days, had been killed in action on March 1 in Italy, was received last Tuesday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard McDermaid, now making their home in Oakland, where Mr. McDermaid is employed at the Moore shipyards.

Pfc. McDermaid, who would have celebrated his 20th birthday tomorrow, grew up in Carmel, where his family resided for 12 years prior to the outbreak of war. He enlisted in the army immediately following Pearl Harbor and as a member of the Headquarters company of the 30th Infantry, participated in both the North African and Sicilian invasions prior to the action on the Anzio beach head in which he was fatally wounded.

His last visit to the Peninsula was in September, 1942, when he spent part of his leave with his aunt, Mrs. Grace Hamilton, formerly of Carmel and now making her home in Monterey. He is the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hobson who moved from Carmel to Oakland over a year ago when Mr. Hobson took a position in the Moore shipyards. A sister, Mrs. Virgil Oats, is living in Palo Alto during the service of her husband, Staff Sergeant Oats, now in England with a bomber squadron.
